This Week We Look Over the Crop Of Candidates For City, County, State and National Office

It looks now like winter is over for a spell and we can settle down to a little political prognosticating. I think everyone enjoys_sitting around and guessing on who will run for what-and why. So, I might as well do a little guess-ing along with the jest or you.

First let's look into the senatorial race. There is Sense, tor Charles O. Andrews out at the head of the pack. Then there are others. Many others. There's the governous Fred P. Cone—In the race. He entered hast week. It is hard to tell what kind of race the governor will make. The best I can learn he plans to make sort of a front-porch campaign and leave most of the work up to his Triends throughout the state. Dr. O. B. Hazen of West Palm Beach is talking about entering the race. Dr. Hazen is a former resident of Pahokee and has a host of friends who will be interested in his race if he finally decides to have the control of the sense of the sense

The woods seem to be full of cahdidates for governor. Up in Volusia county there is handsome, smiling and youngish Francis P. Whitehair. He cut his first teeth on a political ring. He is a well-to-do attorney and citrus grower and over the state one hears a lot of talk in favor of Mr. Whitehair. We switch from Volusia—the home of former governor, Dave Sholtz, to Imperial Polk county and State Senator Spessard L. Holland. After serving two four-year terms in the state senate Mr. Holland has decided to make the rule for governor. In fact he dropped by the secretary of state's office theother day and paid in a qualifying fees—$875.00. County Commissioners Hethoxo of the state association of county commissioners and has wide acquaintance throughout Florida. Right here in Palm Beach county we have a man who is going to surprise a lot of people and garner in a lot of votes on May. He He is none other than our own B. F. Paty, He launched his campaign in Flagler park in West Palm Beach last Thursday, night before a large crowd of home-towners. My informants in north and west Florida tell me that Paty has a large following in that section. If he carries Dade, Broward and Palm Beach counties along with a right good cantering of rotes throughout the state—It looks like it might be hard to keep him out of the second primary.

Up Jacksonville way we have another youngster who aspires to Governor Cone's toga—Fuller Warren. Fuller has been as the control of the contro re are many other fellows in Florida who are either g to run or making a lot of fuss about it before ation day arrives. Some may qualify. Others, or won't. But, let's get a little closer nome and talk that Beach county politics for a while.

I'll start off by saying that County Superintendent of soois John I. Leonard will be a candidate to succeed himfu for office. In office, to date I haven't heard of any opposition fair, Leonard. I'm guessing (remember all we can do is seen) that he doesn't have any opposition this time. From at I can find out around over the county the major port of the Johs seem pretty well sattified with the job of the John Superintendent Leonard has done. Records with the has beey's busy man since taking over the job. Records also show that he has worked harmoniously with the three members of the county school board for the good of the youngsters in school who will be the men and women of tomorrow. I haven't heard of any opposition to Jimmy Owens, courty assessor. Jimmy takes care of his office and finds time to get around and keep in touch with the folks in the county.

Just this week I heard that Alex Arnett will be a candidate for the job now held by George O: Butler—clerk of the circuit court. Alex lives in West Palm Beach and travels Palm Beach county for a.wholesale concern. I asked limit the other day if he had succeeded in getting enough of his friends to urge him to make the race and he was frank, and truthful in his answer. He said hed like to have the job because it paid good money and offered a chance for him to render a service to the people of the county. Carl Widell, chairman of the county school board, is considering the race for circuit court clerk. Carl has served two terms as chairman of the school board and, I think, has done a good job there. Uncle George Butler will be in the race for his same job. Known to nearly every resident of the county he will come in for his share of votes on election day.

Stetson O. Sproul, county tax collector, is another efficient official who may have no opposition. Of course, there are many days between now and the primary and there are many days between now and the primary and cen never knows how many opponents may crop up before the day of balloting. From here it looks like the sheriff's race will be between the present sheriff. W. Hirgm Lawrence and Attorney L. R. Jack Baker. Their race was a close affair four years ago and in all probability the race between these two gentlemen will provide the fireworks of the campaign in Palm Beach county. John Grier, supervisor of registration, had a flock of opponents four years ago. He came out on top. I imagine there will be three or four out for Mr. Grier's job before the deadline comes.

In the Pahokee-Canal Point area right now there is more talk about the constable's race than anything else. It looks like Francis Cross, deputy sheriff, may oppose Constable Albert Gant in the coming election. Mr. Cross has made no official announcement but many of-his trignost are asking him to make the race. Mr. Gant hasn't made his official announcement yet, but, I understand he will stand for re-election.

With a city election coming up in Pahokee on the same day the state primary is held, there'll be pleity of excitement. Haywood Baxter, police chief, will in all probability be opposed by two contenders for his job. Lee Rawla, former police chief and at present deputy shediff, is thinking seriously of making the race. "E. O. Murphy plans to make the race for police chief, he said. That's three in the race and the date for qualifying is a long way off.

Attorney Russell O. Morrow, state representative in group two, will make the race for re-election. He served in the 1937 session and was re-elected to the 1939 session without opposition. Mr. Morrow doesn't believe he will be as lucky this time as he was two years ago — to get by without opposition. Attorney Herbert D. Beck of Belle Glade, who trimmed this writer two years ago for a seat in the lower house, hasn't made any public announcement as to whether he will seek re-election.

Now, about that state senatorship. As you probably already know the 35th senatorial district of Florida (Palm Beach and Broward counties) is represented in the upper house in Tallahşasee by J. R. Beacham. He has served two four-year terms and is going to have opposition during the coming primary election. Attorney Charley Abbott of West Palm Beach was in my office the other day talking about his plans to run for the state senate. I didn't tell him about the several folks who have been asking me to make the same race. I've got a little figuring to do though before! I make an announcement: I must figure out whether these folks, who are urging me to run for the senate, really want to support me or whether they just want to get me out of the race for state representative. I'll let you know just as soon as I figure it out.

Though neither gentleman has made formal announcement of his intention, it is generally thought in this section of the county that County Commissioner, Dayle Crocker and County School Board Stender Carmen Salvatore of the County Commissioner of the County Commissioner of the County Commissioner of the County Commissioner of the County County of the County County of the County o

Frost and Cold Winds Give Glades Crops Severe Set-back: Prices Are Up

The severest cold spell in five years visited the Lake' Okeechobee farming region during the week. No t since December 1934 has this section experienced weather of the type that the weather man dished out for green vegetable growers and other residents of this area. The cold spell has taken its toll in tender vegetables during the week and the remaining crops are undergoing a severe setback on account of the cold and cold wind.

It has been estimated that 10,000 years we've required to form the rich muck deposits that make up 4,000,000 acres of land in Southeast Florida. Thirty years ago man began intefrering with the process that created and-maintained the muck deposits in undertaking to make the virgin Everglades fit for cultivation, water was drained away in such vast quantities as to make the land a prey to the twin menaces of fire and the second of the control of th and subsidence.

Thousands of acres have already been destroyed by fire and the land, especially in cultivated creas, is subsiding af an alarming rate. Even in undeveloped areas the surface elevation is slowly dropping, due to the lowering of the underground water table.

Students of the problem are generally agreed that the only way to save the 'Glades for future generations is to restore conditions as nearly as possible to what they were before drainage operations were started. The plan adopted by the Soil Conservation Service is to install retaining dams and spillways about every six miles along the canals. Better distribution and retention of excess water from the canals and trailed the excess water from the canals and rate of the excess water from the canals and rate of the excess water from the canals of the excess water from the canals and rate of the excess water from the canals for above the ground surface elvation. Thus run-off and seepage from adjacent lands into the canals would be refated and the water-soaked muck would not become subject to ravage by fires. It would also have the effect of halting subsidence, natural oxidation and wind erosion, all of which play a part in destroying their fertility.

It is this work that the Soil Conservation Service of the Federal government and the Fire Control Roard are about to start. Only sufficient funds are available to make a beginning, but there is hope that the programmer will be provided later if the programmer will be required to save the half from its effects. But if these millions of rich acros can be conserved for fuller users.
